Workshop Summary: Focusing on the CTLA Trunk Formula Method, this workshop gives an overview of the appraisal process and provides an opportunity to practice in the field. Participants will review common mistakes and refine their craft as appraising arborists.

The first portion of the course is a lecture that discusses the four primary components of the formula: trunk area, species rating, location rating & condition rating. Next, the error associated with each component is identified and recommendations are given for reducing error. The second half of the course is a field application of the concepts discussed in the lecture. Participants will divide into groups and appraise several trees. The class will reconvene and discuss the results. As you will be outside – please bring appropriate clothing for weather conditions.

James Komen is a consulting arborist and BCMA in the greater Los Angeles area specializing in tree appraisals. He employs principles of finance and accounting to help clients make informed management decisions for individual trees and for tree inventories.
